

Jeni Young

I am a mum of two and have worked for numerous years as a specialised therapist with children and young people.

I also work in a consultancy capacity in education establishments within Lancashire. I have a particular interest in the education provided for young people and their experiences of it. I believe in the value of education and a good school in which to receive that.